Retirement Security

PLAN & TRUST

Dear Small Business Entrepreneur:

The Retirement Security Plan & Trust (RSPT) is an innovative retirement planning solution available to small businesses. The RSPT gives smaller companies access to a retirement planning solution typically available only to large businesses.

Built on a 401(k) platform, the RSPT is a turnkey solution inclusive of professional trustee, fiduciary, administrative, management, and investment services. Initial and ongoing compliance is extremely important when dealing with any form of retirement plan. The RSPT team helps the small business entrepreneur maintain ongoing Internal Revenue Service and Department of Labor regulatory compliance.

In addition to its many strengths as a 401(k) plan, the RSPT enables entrepreneurs to use their qualified retirement assets to invest directly in the small business itself. When properly implemented and administered, the RSPT enables an individual to access his or her retirement funds to capitalize a small business while preserving the fund's tax deferral and avoiding penalties.

Upon adopting the RSPT, plan participants have immediate access to a set of professionally managed investment portfolios. Thus, the RSPT is a comprehensive turnkey solution.

The cost to adopt and maintain the RSPT is unmatched by any other plan capable of providing similar benefits. In fact, the mutual fund fees are roughly one-third of the industry standard.

In this preview of the RSPT, you'll discover a wealth of information about why small business owners have adopted our unique, compliant, professionally managed retirement plan. We are confident that once you have completed your review, you will find it to be a value-added solution that can help you and your small business succeed.

We invite you to contact us for more information about this innovative retirement planning solution.

Respectfully,

Hutcheson Walker Advisors, LLC

An Entrepreneur and “Qualified” Money ...

People become entrepreneurs because they decide to take control of their own destiny by starting or buying a business. But with this decision comes the very significant problem of getting the small business venture financed. In many cases, the entrepreneur’s investable assets are held primarily in qualified retirement vehicles such as IRAs, pensions and 401(k) plans.

Qualified retirement assets enjoy one or another kind of preferred tax treatment, typically tax deferral until the assets are withdrawn from a given account. If improperly accessed, these qualified assets are exposed to a 10% penalty and often 40% or more in federal and state income taxes. Depending on a person’s tax bracket and the state of residence, total penalties along with federal and state taxes can approach 50%.

So, the question to be answered is...

“How can a person access his or her retirement funds to purchase or capitalize a business while preserving tax deferral and avoiding penalties?”

The Solution To The Problem...
Retirement Security Plan &
Trust (RSPT)

A Brief Background on the Evolution of Retirement Plans and Small Business Investments...

Fortunately, federal law provides for exactly that, as the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 (“EGTRRA”) enables entrepreneurs to access accumulated retirement money to capitalize their businesses.

EGTRRA relaxed the portability rules for retirement plans, allowing assets created in several types of retirement plans to be rolled into each other. For example, prior to passage of EGTRRA, a 401(k) Plan could only hold funds created in a 401(k) Plan. Under EGTRRA, funds created in other plans such as IRAs, defined benefit plans, traditional pensions, 403(b), etc...plans can be rolled into a single 401(k).

This ability to transfer funds between plan types expanded the planning opportunity for entrepreneurs to use retirement funds as a business capitalization source.

When a business establishes a retirement plan such as a 401(k), the business becomes a “plan sponsor.” Once the plan is active, investment options are made available to the plan’s participants, who then select their investment options, preferably with the guidance of fiduciary-minded investment professionals.

Retirement plans have had the ability to include the plan sponsor—that is, debt or equity issued by the company itself—as an investment option since the passage of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA). However, ERISA imposes certain restrictions on a retirement plan’s ability to invest in a plan sponsor’s securities. In addition, the law limits the amount of funds that can be invested in a sponsor’s securities for plans that are allowed to invest in such securities.

ERISA does not prohibit a plan’s acquisition or sale of qualifying employer securities of the sponsor and no limitation on the amount of funds that can be invested in a plan sponsor if the plan is an “eligible individual account plan.” An eligible individual account plan is defined as an individual account plan which is a profit-sharing, stock bonus, thrift, or savings plan. 401(k) plans fall under this definition.

Entrepreneurs can now roll their retirement funds from their various plans into one bucket and then pour that bucket into a 401(k) Plan

One of the Advanced and Enhanced Options Available with a 401(k) Plan is Investing in the Entrepreneur’s Business as a Source of Business Capital

When Investing in Employer Stock, Failure to Properly Manage and Administer a Retirement Plan Will Create a Compliance Storm with the IRS. Find Out How the RSPT is Your Compliance Life Preserver...

On October 1, 2008, with the issuance of a Director Memorandum to its field agents, the Internal Revenue Service, for the very first time, addressed the use of retirement funds being used as a business capitalization source. In the Director Memorandum the IRS identifies the use of retirement money as a business capitalization source as an arrangement known as Rollover as Business Startups.

The IRS is looking for defects of abuse in Retirement Plans.

The exclusive, compliant and professionally managed RSPT, developed and implemented by Hutcheson Walker Advisors, helps entrepreneurs address potential defects before they occur!

The IRS is, in part, looking for the following during a review a plan:

1. Permanence: Does the plan receive any form of ongoing contribution?
2. Exclusive Benefit: The plan must be operated for the benefit of employees and their beneficiaries. Thus, as long as plan assets used to capitalize the business are not used for personal purposes and the plan is in fact operated to benefit the company's employees and their beneficiaries, the exclusive benefit requirement should not be a problem.
3. Benefits, Rights and Features Discrimination: The IRS has not specifically found that these plans typically discriminate against rank and file employees in coverage or contributions. So the IRS instead is looking at whether the plan is discriminating in favor of "highly-compensated employees." The key issue to be reviewed here is the method by which the employer stock was offered and sold to the plan.
4. Prohibited Transactions: The IRS will be looking at the employer stock transaction and whether the plan paid "adequate consideration." This is where a valuation by an independent qualified business valuator is extremely important to confirm that the plan did not overpay for its employer stock investment. The IRS will also review the payment of plan implementation fees. The issue with the fees is to see if plan assets were indirectly used to pay the fees.

It is not possible to make a blanket policy to disqualify these types of plans because retirement plans are in fact allowed to invest in employer stock. So the IRS is left to review plans on a case-by-case basis to identify any disqualifying defects. That's why entrepreneurs find peace of mind with Hutcheson Walker Advisors' RSPT. Because it is properly designed, implemented, and administered, the RSPT withstands any scrutiny that may be brought against it.

The memorandum highlights a big issue which is generally true for retirement plans...Compliance is not about being compliant when a plan is formed because being compliant at the start is the easy part. Compliance is about how the plan is managed and administered over time. Time will be the best indicator as to whether the entrepreneur established the plan to be a real retirement plan or whether the plan was established solely to benefit the entrepreneur. Individuals who self-deal or engage in other abusive tactics expose themselves to the long arm of the IRS. On the other hand, individuals who are compliant will hold up just fine under IRS scrutiny.

The RSPT is an Entrepreneur's Solution to Overcoming Potential Defects in a Retirement Plan

Now That You Know What is NOT a Compliant Retirement Plan in the Eyes of the IRS, Find Out About the Compliant RSPT ...

The Retirement Security Plan & Trust (RSPT) is a Multiple Employer Safe Harbor 401(k) and Profit Sharing Plan specifically designed to enable the plan to invest in an entrepreneur's small business.

This 401(k) plan is perfect for both existing and new businesses. An Entrepreneur can utilize the basic features of the plan by implementing the plan as the company's sole retirement plan or its advanced features can be utilized to enable the plan to invest directly in the entrepreneur's business.

The advanced features of the RSPT, which enable the plan to make an investment in the business, allow the entrepreneur to gain access to his or her accumulated retirement funds for business investment purposes without incurring tax liabilities or penalties.

Because the RSPT is managed by a professional team of trustees and fiduciaries, entrepreneurs who adopt the RSPT enjoy ongoing support in complying with Internal Revenue Service and Department of Labor rules and regulations.

What is the Process?

1. Adopt the RSPT

The small business entity formally adopts the RSPT to serve as the organization's official retirement plan. This is done simply by signing the required documents.

2. Move money from existing retirement plan to RSPT

The money is moved from where it is currently held to the RSPT. This is called a Trustee-to-Trustee Transfer or a Custodian-to-Custodian Transfer.

Note: If the RSPT is going to be used as a capitalization source for the small business, then the following Steps 3 and 4 will also apply.

3. Business valuation

The business is valued to determine the ownership to be held by the RSPT.

4. Investment is made in the business by the RSPT

The RSPT invests directed funds into the small business.

Whether you utilize the basic features of the RSPT or use its advanced features to capitalize a business ...
You will want to turn the page to uncover the 15 key features of the premier Retirement Plan for small business entrepreneurs.

Key Features of the RSPT You'll Want to Know and How It Holds Up to Scrutiny

- Seasoned Plan – This specific plan has been serving the retirement planning needs of entrepreneurs and employee participants since 2003.
- Fully Functional 401(k) and Profit Sharing Plan - The RSPT is a fully functional 401(k) plan so an entrepreneur and his or her employees will immediately be able to begin building or continue building retirement assets by deferring income into the plan.
- Regulatory Compliance - The RSPT is designed to maintain and maximize compliance with applicable regulatory provisions overseen by the Internal Revenue Service and the Department of Labor. Accordingly, the Safe Harbor provisions of ERISA have been fully adopted and implemented.
- Plan Administration - The RSPT is professionally managed and administered to guide employers in plan compliance. For example, employees must be notified about the plan when hired and at least annually thereafter, contributions and investment activity must be properly tracked, the plan must be updated to match any legislative changes, annual reports with required disclosures must be filed, prudent investment selections should be provided, and so on.
- Independent Trustee/Fiduciary Platform – Entrepreneurs who serve as trustees to their retirement plans find it exceedingly difficult, even impossible, to be independent in the decisions associated with plan administration, especially when it comes to the prudence of investing in employer stock. The RSPT is professionally managed and administered with an independent Trustee/Fiduciary platform. This means that entrepreneurs receive ongoing professional support and are not simply left on their own after adopting the plan.
- Qualifying Employer Securities Provision - When the RSPT is used to make an investment in the entrepreneur's business, NO tax or penalty is incurred when properly implemented and administered.
- Investment Portfolio Selections - Complete turnkey solution with a set of globally diversified, professionally managed portfolios.
- Custodial Services - No additional custodial services required.
- Recordkeeping and Third Party Administration (TPA) - Recordkeeping and TPA functions are provided as a part of the plan's comprehensive service.
- Electronic Recordkeeping - All recordkeeping is maintained electronically and fully secured with each participant having access to manage his or her account 24 hours a day. Thus, the entrepreneur is not burdened with ongoing recordkeeping obligations.
- Quarterly Account Statements - In addition to continuous electronic account access, participants receive quarterly statements.
- Annual Audit - The RSPT is audited each year by an independent Certified Public Accountant.
- Unlimited Advisory Support - The annual plan maintenance cost includes unlimited compliance support for the entrepreneur and the entrepreneur's tax preparer, attorney, and any other key advisors on any compliance matter associated with the retirement plan.
- Form 5500 Reporting - The annual Form 5500, which is the IRS-mandated reporting document for retirement plans, is included as a part of the annual plan maintenance cost.
- Regulatory Amendments and Document Updates - The implementation of all applicable regulatory changes and document updates are included as a part of ongoing plan support.

Introducing ... the Plan Trustee and Plan Fiduciary of the RSPT

Matthew D. Hutcheson is a practicing Independent Fiduciary under the terms of ERISA Section 3(21). He is also a principal of Hutcheson Walker Advisors, LLC.

In his capacity as a 3(21) fiduciary, he is appointed by a Board of Directors, authorized company representative, or Federal Court to act in the chief fiduciary position over a plan. That means Mr. Hutcheson serves as the primary decision maker, the person with final authority and discretion over a plan.

With Mr. Hutcheson at the helm, employers enjoy peace of mind by knowing they are doing the right things the right way.

Mr. Hutcheson has trained hundreds of employers to be competent, prudent fiduciaries to their plans. He has also performed many fiduciary and economic plan audits and reviews, saving plan participants hundreds of millions of dollars in future benefits that would have otherwise slipped away through previously unknown inefficiencies lurking within their plans.

Plan sponsors, participants, and beneficiaries benefit significantly from the same insight and knowledge Mr. Hutcheson shares with Congressional Committees in both the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Which Vessel Would You Rather be in During a Storm?

Two vessels are about to leave port. One is an inflatable dingy, the other a U.S. aircraft carrier. With a long journey ahead, you have the option to choose the vessel in which you'll travel. When making your decision, remember that major storms do occur at sea. Both vessels float and each will get you started on your journey. But which one would you rather find yourself in during a storm? It's not whether a vessel can float at the start; it's which vessel will get you where you want to go that counts.
